

Gaslight Media Data Backup Service

You do have off-site data backup, right? Are you willing to trust some unknown company in some remote destination of the Internet with your backup data? Worry no longer. Gaslight Media, a company you already know and trust, now offers secure local data backup services tailored to your specific needs.

The Gaslight Media Data Backup service is simple to use so you won't avoid doing critical daily backups. Our engineers will personally walk you through setup and configuration and provide local support for this important service. When you call Gaslight Media, you speak with local, knowledgeable, experienced network engineers who are technical support experts. We do not outsource our support services!

The Gaslight Media Data Backup service is also kind to your Internet connection. Daily "incremental" backups only store data that has changed, and you can retrieve and restore specific files and data from our backup systems without having to download and filter through an entire system backup.

Your backup data is secure with Gaslight Media. Everything sent from your systems to ours and back is automatically encrypted to ensure privacy. Gaslight Media will always store your backup files locally on systems in our secure local data centers, not in some large server farm in Maryland or China.

Gaslight Media knows there is no "one size fits all" data backup service. Our service is designed to be flexible and can be tailored to your specific requirements. It's the most efficient, cost-effective backup service available, right here in Northern Michigan. Our engineers review and monitor your data backup activity to make sure your backups aren't taking too long or require configuration changes to ensure the most reliable and efficient service.
